BAD romance

Will the Garveys' deadly secret be discovered as Grace ties the knot?

NEW COMEDY DRAMA

Bad Sisters

From Wednesday 13 November, Apple TV+ (two episodes on Wed 13 Nov, then released weekly)

Anne-Marie Duff (Grace) and Sharon Horgan (Eva)

Bibi
Sarah Greene
Outspoken Bibi and wife Nora are undergoing IVF treatment in the hope of having second child. Will it be all happy families?

Having already given us TV hits Catastrophe and Motherland, writer, director and actor Sharon Horgan scored a hat-trick in 2022 with Bad Sisters.

Tackling the sensitive topic of domestic abuse with sincerity and a generous dose of Irish humour, the comedy drama was lapped up by viewers and critics alike, winning a clutch of awards including BAFTAs for Best Drama and Best Supporting Actress for Anne-Marie Duff.

So it's no wonder that Horgan felt pressure when writing and filming Season 2, which lands on Apple TV+ this week.

'It's amazing to know Bad Sisters was so well-received, but putting out Season 2 is nerve-racking because people related to the sisters so well and you want them to connect with it in the same way,' says Horgan, who plays eldest sister Eva Garvey, alongside Duff as abused widow Grace, Eva Birthistle as Ursula, Sarah Greene as Bibi, and Eve Hewson as Becka.

The drama picks up two years on from the 'accidental death' of Grace's abusive husband, John Paul, aka JP, after it was revealed in the finale that she'd actually strangled him to death with his pyjama top. We now find Grace getting married to new man Ian (Killing Eve's Owen McDonnell), but when the sisters are rocked by a sudden devastating tragedy, their bond is tested like never before.

In an exclusive interview with TV&Satellite Week, Horgan, 54, tells us more…

What were the challenges of writing Season 2 of Bad Sisters? Apart from Season 1's JP storyline and having this central, villainous character that everyone loved to hate, I know viewers really enjoyed being around this infectious group of women who are so full of passion and anger. So it was about keeping the sisters at the heart of a drama. I'd found with Catastrophe and Motherland that if you have a great first season, doing it all again just feels weird. But once we'd decided on the storyline, all the sisters' voices came back naturally. I stopped worrying so much and that difficult 'second album' started flowing.

> 'I stopped worrying and that difficult "second album" started flowing'
> SHARON HORGAN

Where do we find the Garvey sisters as the new episodes begin? It's two years on, all the sisters have all moved on in their lives, and Grace is marrying a seemingly great man, Ian. But she's fragile. She's still living with the guilt of what she did and the impact it has on her conscience. Meanwhile, Grace's neighbour Roger [Michael Smiley] is wavering in his conviction about having helped Grace move JP's body. At the wedding, Roger's sister, Angelica [Fiona Shaw, see panel, right], sees the pair talking, and senses something's up. Things then start to fall apart quickly…

Is Angelica the common enemy uniting the sisters in Season 2? Having JP as a villain in Season 1 was a big set of shoes to fill, so we knew we had to fill them in different ways. The police play an important role this time. When a discovery is made, seasoned detective DI Fergal Loftus [Barry Ward] and his rookie partner, Una Houlihan [Thaddea Graham] are brilliant as foils for the sisters, alongside Angelica. And there's a bigger enemy that emerges over time.

What does Fiona Shaw bring to the role of Angelica? Fiona was in our heads from the start. I wrote the part for her and she's perfect as Angelica. We needed someone who could watch these sisters and have a constant, internal battle with herself as to why they seem so free and able to live a life she's never been able to have. Angelica is very moral but also hypocritical – she likes messing with the sisters and sticking the knife in.

How was it working in your native Ireland? Filming Grace's wedding in Ireland, the weather went from boiling hot to full-blown monsoon, so we were disappointed when we turned up in all our wedding finery and there's mud everywhere and it's pouring with rain. Our director, Dearbhla Walsh, gave this beautiful speech about how we were all together in this beautiful setting making a show we all love. So she buoyed us all while we're being whipped around by wind and rain!

Becka
Eve Hewson
The youngest Garvey sister is loved-up with new boyfriend, Ben. But when ex Matt recalls the 'big secret' he kept, will they reunite?

Grace
Anne-Marie Duff
Life's seemingly looking up for Grace as she gets hitched to Ian. But will she truly be able to put her traumatic past behind her?

Ursula
Eva Birthistle
On the surface, Ursula appears to be coping, but behind closed doors she's struggling and self-medicating. Will a tragedy tip her over the edge?

Eva
Sharon Horgan
Always looking out for her sisters, Eva's about to experience a new wave of feelings and emotions as she enters the menopause...

SUSPICIOUS MIND

With screen credits that include Petunia Dursley in the Harry Potter films and spymaster Carolyn Martens in BBC1's Killing Eve, Fiona Shaw couldn't wait to add Bad Sisters to her already impressive CV when she joins the cast this week as the suspicious Angelica.

'There's a lot less very good writing around, so it's such a relief when you read something from one of the brightest sparks in the industry, which Sharon Horgan is,' enthuses Shaw, 66. 'I loved Season 1 and this follow-up is almost more brave and more dangerous.

'Angelica is a nice person who has unfortunate character traits,' she adds. 'Angelica's annoying but she's lonely and wants to be friends with Grace and join the sisters' gang. The gap between Angelica's version of reality and actual reality is where comedy lies.'

RETURN of the KING

As the star-studded Tudor saga resumes, tensions mount for Henry VIII's trusted adviser Thomas Cromwell

NEW PERIOD DRAMA

Wolf Hall: The Mirror and the Light

Sunday, 9pm, BBC1

It's almost a decade since lavish Tudor drama Wolf Hall, based on the late Hilary Mantel's acclaimed novels, transported viewers into the heart of the political scheming, fierce ambition and inescapable peril at the court of King Henry VIII.

Central to that dangerous intrigue was shrewd, unflinching politician Thomas Cromwell (Sir Mark Rylance), who had made a dazzling rise from working-class origins to become the trusted principal adviser to temperamental, despotic Henry (Damian Lewis).

But now, as the series returns for a much-anticipated second and final instalment on BBC1, adapted from the last book in Mantel's trilogy, the pair's bond is set to be put to the test.

When the six-part run picks up the action in 1536, however, both men are riding high. Henry's second wife Anne Boleyn (Claire Foy) has been beheaded on charges of adultery and treason, cooked up by ruthless Cromwell, leaving Henry free to marry third wife Jane Seymour (Kate Phillips). Hoping at last to have a son and heir, Henry rewards Cromwell with promotion to Lord Privy Seal.

'The King enjoys Cromwell's honesty. He can get things done, so Henry doesn't have to think too hard about them himself,' says Lewis, 53. 'Cromwell is the wheeler-dealer behind everything.'

A DANGEROUS GAME

In the opening episode, Cromwell draws on all his political skills when he is called upon to persuade the king's Catholic eldest daughter Mary (Lilit Lesser) to sign the oath recognising her father as Head of the Church of England. Meanwhile, the monarch's cousins, the Pole family, are doing all they can to return the country to the old religion and end Protestantism.

'Cromwell is reaping great benefits and wealth, but dealing with people trying to put a knife in his back,' says Rylance, 64, who won a BAFTA for the first series. 'There are times when he fantasises for a different life. He's always aware something bad could happen.'

Indeed, as the series progresses, Cromwell walks an increasingly dangerous line as his enemies circle and he knows one false move could mean a deadly end to his charmed life as Henry's right-hand man.

'Henry is a terrifying individual. One day he will be gentle and kind, the next he will be tyrannical, furious, vindictive and cruel,' says director Peter Kosminsky, who needed to be extra careful when filming the series in some of England's most beautiful 16th-century buildings, including the Great Hall at Hampton Court.

'The conservators are all over you like a rash, and understandably so because they are there to protect these treasures for the wider public,' he smiles. 'But the joy in filming in these historic locations is that your actors are standing on the very spot where Henry, Cromwell and Jane Seymour stood 500 years ago. For the actors, and for me, the thrill of that was incomparable.'

NEW FACES

The series features several cast changes, including Dame Harriet Walter, who takes over as formidable Lady Margaret Pole, and Harry Melling, who plays Cromwell's aide Thomas Wriothesley. Meanwhile, Charlie Rowe steps into the shoes of Tom Holland as Cromwell's son Gregory, and Timothy Spall follows the late Bernard Hill as the irascible Duke of Norfolk.

'The loss of Bernard Hill was heartbreaking. He was fantastic as Norfolk and he was a friend,' reveals director Peter Kosminsky. 'Tim Spall is physically a very different actor from Bernard, but he gives an extraordinary performance as Norfolk, who becomes more important as the series goes on.'

Killer queen?

NEW DRAMA

Midsomer Murders

Sunday, 8pm, ITV1

Glitz and glamour hit TV's deadliest county when the latest episode of ITV1's Midsomer Murders sees a killer strike in the run-up to a lavish drag show.

The charity extravaganza is being put on in a village pub to raise funds for a teenager with cancer. But the event is unpopular with many, particularly the local dominoes players who had been planning to use the same venue for their tournament.

And when the disapproving parish council chair is found dead and dressed in drag after being attacked with a pink stiletto, DCI Barnaby (Neil Dudgeon) and DS Winter (Nick Hendrix) must find the murderer before they strike again.

TV&Satellite Week caught up with Hendrix, 39, to find out more about the case...

What can you tell us about the episode? It's colourful. Every scene is pink and bright – even with the dead bodies! This is about both a drag show and a dominoes contest, which is classic for Midsomer, with two warring worlds. People are stuck in their ways, and the drag world brings a big question mark for some. There are jealousies, affairs, rivalries, love and hate.

The first death is dramatic, isn't it? We always want our murders to be high-concept visually and this was amazing. And there's another creative death later with a big dress... This episode was about costumes on another level, and we had to do it right, so our hair and make-up team got tutorials from drag make-up artists and even some of our supporting actors were real drag performers.

Did you join in? They missed a trick not getting me to dress up but I did wear a feather boa! And we find out that Fleur [Perkins, the show's pathologist played by Annette Badland] has a drag past...

You have been with the show for eight years. What keeps you in Midsomer? Midsomer has always been hard to say no to, it's a nice job with great people and it's fun. I spend more time with Neil than I do my wife when we're filming. But I really enjoy his company, so I'm happy in the world of Midsomer.

Pudsey's BIG night

The stars are out in force for the BBC's annual charity extravaganza

The presenting line-up

LIVE FUNDRAISER
Children in Need
Friday, 7pm, BBC1

Get ready to don those Pudsey ears and dig deep for a host of good causes as TV favourites, music stars and special guests team up for this year's Children in Need.

The BBC's annual night of fun and fundraising takes place this Friday, with Mel Giedroyc, Lenny Rush, Vernon Kay, Rochelle Humes, Ade Adepitan and Chris Ramsey, hosting the star-studded, three-hour spectacle featuring hilarious sketches and showstopping performances to raise money for the many Children in Need-funded projects across the UK.

Ahead of Pudsey's big night, BBC1's Interior Design Masters for Children in Need (Tuesday, 8pm) gets creative with its first celebrity special, in which six famous faces help the CiN-funded Sandwell Young Carers project to create magical makeovers for the people it supports.

Celebrities including comedian Jon Richardson, comedian and podcaster Joanne McNally, plus ex-Spandau Ballet star and actor Martin Kemp and his wife, singer Shirlie Kemp, are split into three teams, while design icon Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen joins resident judge Michelle Ogundehin to decide which team will clinch the title.

Here, host Carr, 48, reveals what's in store…

What can you tell us about the special show? Sandwell is an unexpected little jewel in the West Midlands that shines a light on what these amazing children do on a daily basis – trying to hold everything together while learning skills to go out into the world themselves. When the kids saw Pudsey, all their faces lit up. It was magical.

Which of the celebrities impressed you? I liked Shirlie Kemp – she had a nice style and seemed like a really sympathetic designer. But I wouldn't let Joanne McNally anywhere near my house – she painted an antique fireplace bright pink!

How will the transformations throughout the centre help the kids? One thing I've learned from hosting Interior Design Masters is that colours, textures and wallpaper plus love, enthusiasm and some simple, affordable design hacks can really improve a space and make you feel better. Martin Kemp's music room was a place where these kids could go and be creative – he even donated one of his guitars from his Spandau Ballet days. The music room had real drama – and of course the stage just had to be painted 'Gold', didn't it?

Did you find this special edition emotional? I was definitely ugly-crying at times and I'm pretty sure even Pudsey had a little cry, too. The celebrities really cared about what they were doing – they were at the centre from 7am to 7pm every day and took it really seriously. The kids' reaction to the makeovers at the end was a complete joy. Did I help? No, I'm rubbish at DIY – I can't even put a shelf up!

Famous faces bravely put their fate in the hands of a group of kids with the return of Graham Norton's Red Chair. Fail to make the youngsters laugh and they'll be ejected!

The stars of BBC1's Gladiators will be popping in, while Strictly Come Dancing's pro dancers are joined by a global superstar for a dazzling performance. There's also an unmissable pitch in Dragons' Den and a CBeebies Bedtime Story worth staying up for.

Aldis Hodge takes on the role of the sharp-witted crime-fighter

Aldis Hodge as Alex Cross

NEW FROM prime video

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Cross

From Thu 14 Nov, Prime Video

Cross wants to get to the truth

James Patterson's iconic detective hero Alex Cross has been the subject of more than 30 bestselling books and has been played in three movies by Morgan Freeman and Tyler Perry.

So, Aldis Hodge has big shoes to fill as he brings the cop and forensic psychologist to life once more in Prime Video's eight-part series Cross.

'I knew who Alex Cross is, and I'd seen some of the previous films with Morgan Freeman way back in the day,' says Hodge, 38. 'But the script for the series was written so brilliantly that I just fell in love with it.'

DARK PLACE

As the action begins, we find Cross grieving his murdered wife Maria and trying to hold himself together for the sake of his two children.

His family, including grandmother Nana Mama (Juanita Jennings) and his partner on the force and best friend of 30 years, John Sampson (Isaiah Mustafa), are deeply concerned about him. But, rather than seeking help, Cross throws himself into investigating the death of a civil-rights activist.

The evidence points to suicide but Cross suspects foul play and is determined to get to the truth. It soon becomes clear that a sadistic serial killer is on the loose, while Cross must also face a mysterious threat from his past, which is putting his children at risk.

'There is a beautiful vulnerability to Cross,' says Hodge, whose credits include superhero movie Black Adam. 'When he's at work, we get to see him in cop mode. But we also get to see another side of him, at home, when he's just being a dad.'

As Cross and Sampson investigate, they come into contact with all elements of Washington DC society and it seems the killer might be hiding in plain sight. Can they solve the case before another victim is claimed?

THRILLING

The series, which also stars New Amsterdam's Ryan Eggold, provided thriller fan Hodge with the perfect opportunity to see how his character's brilliant mind works.

'I'm a fan of true crime and a big psychology buff,' he says. 'When we started the show, we had consultations with real detectives in DC. I like to understand the different patterns of human behaviour.'

Gary Barlow's Wine Tour: South Africa

Monday-Friday, 2pm, ITV1

As well as his hugely successful music career, during which he's sold more than 50 million records worldwide, Gary Barlow has been a judge on talent shows The X Factor, Let It Shine and Walk the Line. Last year, he joined his fellow members of Take That to perform at King Charles' Coronation Concert outside Windsor Castle.

HIS NEW APPEARANCE

This week, in a new daytime travelogue series, Barlow – who started producing his own wine in 2021 – shares his passion with viewers as he travels across South Africa to experience the vineyards, culture and food in the country where some of his own collection are produced. 'If there is a place that has the wow factor, South Africa is it,' says Barlow, who is joined along the way by friends including Michaela Strachan, and Mica Paris. 'Michaela lives in South Africa and fronted the 90s show The Hit Man and Her, which was the first TV show Take That performed on, so it was brilliant to be reunited with her.'

Josh Finan and Anthony Boyle on playing IRA leaders during the years of turmoil in Northern Ireland....

A time of TERROR

NEW FROM Disney+

NEW DRAMA

Say Nothing

From Thursday 14 Nov, Disney+

Set during The Troubles in Northern Ireland, when bombs, shootings, murder, mayhem and reprisals became an everyday phenomenon, the nine-part drama Say Nothing follows four prominent members of the IRA (Irish Republican Army), a terrorist group who used violence to fight for a united Ireland and against British and Unionist rule in the province. The story takes us through their turbulent lives over three decades from the early 1970s onwards.

The Responder star Josh Finan is playing IRA leader Gerry Adams, who in real life has always denied any involvement in the terrorist organisation, and eventually helped broker peace in 1998 as the president of political party Sinn Fein. Masters of the Air star Anthony Boyle plays IRA strategist Brendan Hughes, while Lola Petticrew and Hazel Doupe play sisters Dolours and Marian Price, who became symbols of radical politics. The four are played in later years by Michael Colgan, Tom Vaughan-Lawlor, Maxine Peake and Helen Behan as the drama moves back and forth in time.

'We live in the hangover of this conflict every day and it's never far from people's minds,' says Anthony Boyle, who's from Belfast and knew all about Brendan Hughes even before taking the role. 'I went to school on the Falls Road and there is a mural of Brendan at the bottom facing my dad's work, so I would see his face every day.'

SHOCKWAVES

Based on the book by Patrick Radden Keefe, the action starts in 1972 with the traumatic real-life kidnapping of Jean McConville (Judith Roddy), a single mother of 10 who was abducted at gunpoint from her home and never seen

Ellis and Harper hunt for the truth about missing newlyweds...

LAST ONE DRAMA

Ellis

Thursday, 8pm, Channel 5

Troubleshooting cops DCI Ellis and DS Harper are put to the test with a dark and complex case in the finale of Channel 5 crime drama Ellis.

The pair are sent to the fictional Peak District village of Brindleton, where the local team is struggling to get to the bottom of the disappearance of newly-married Rachel and Oz Hoffman, who were alive again. Jean became one of the so-called 'disappeared' who were thought to have been murdered by the IRA and the series probes how far people are prepared to go for their beliefs. Around 29 years later, an older Dolours (Maxine Peake) recounts how she and Marian found themselves drawn into the IRA when they realised peaceful protests had no chance of success.

'I don't want people to judge these characters. I want people to ask themselves the questions: What would I do? If this was happening to me, how would I act? What choices would I make if I was in their shoes?' explains Boyle, who recently starred in the historical drama Shardlake. As the series delves into the foursome's memories of murder and turmoil, Josh Finan hopes it will help viewers better understand the actions of those on both sides of the conflict.

'Usually with jobs I try not to consider what people will take away as enforcing 'meaning' isn't my remit,' says Finan, who recently starred in Netflix drama The Gentlemen. 'However, with this particular project, I hope that the show gives people who may not be familiar with this period of Irish history some context for why and how ordinary people went through what they did.'

spending their honeymoon in a camper van near a notoriously treacherous beauty spot.

'It's a very small police station and the crime is overwhelming for them,' says Sharon D Clarke, who plays Ellis. 'Things just don't happen in this place where everybody knows everyone. The local cops can't compute it so they really join forces with Ellis and Harper.'

There are soon several overlapping lines of enquiry. Rachel's wealthy father Gerry (Michael Simkins) had no time for his new son-in-law, and the bride's complex past history also comes under the spotlight.

But matters take an unsettling turn when a severed hand is discovered, while amateur online sleuths hamper the detectives' progress...

'The case is on social media and people are trying to solve it,' explains Clarke. 'It's about how people are using social media for their own agenda, and how that gets in the way of the case.'

As Ellis and Harper (Andrew Gower) tackle the murky investigation, their fledgling working relationship, which began when they were forced together at the start of the series, continues to blossom.

'They're getting to know each other,' shares Gower. 'Initially, Harper's idea of being a detective didn't match up to what Ellis wanted, but he's good at his job and has the same ethos as Ellis. They've gone on a hell of a journey.'

Family at war

The sun finally sets on Western saga Yellowstone

Yellowstone

NEW Available: Monday 11 November
Genre: Drama Season: 5 (part 2)
Episodes: 6 (released weekly)

Montana's Dutton family have overcome many foes in the name of saving their beloved Yellowstone cattle ranch. However, as the hit drama series, which has spawned two spin-off shows so far, concludes with the second half of its fifth and final season, it looks as though the Duttons' greatest enemies will turn out to be themselves.

In the first half of the season, politician Jamie Dutton (Wes Bentley), the adopted son of patriarch John (Kevin Costner), announced his intention to torpedo his father's political career as governor with an intended impeachment, the first in the state's history.

Not to be outdone, his sister Beth (Kelly Reilly) blackmailed Jamie by threatening to go public with details about his biological father's murder. Unfortunately for Beth, Jamie literally knows where the bodies are buried – at the so-called 'train station', where people who have fallen foul of the Dutton dynasty over the years have ended up in a hole in the ground.

We left off with Jamie plotting to bump off his adoptive father and sister, while John and Beth were thinking along similar lines.

GROWING EMPIRE

Off screen, the series experienced high drama when scheduling issues between Costner and the makers of Yellowstone caused a break in production, plunging the Hollywood star's future on the show into doubt.

As Season 5 resumes, Costner has been busy with his own Western project, Horizon. Another Yellowstone spin-off, The Madison, starring Michelle Pfeiffer, is also in the works, as is another prequel series titled 1944. But before all that, what lies ahead for Montana's most dysfunctional family?

'Does Jamie go down with John? Does John go down because of Jamie? Does Jamie have a hand in it at all, or does it turn out Jamie tries to protect him?' teases American Beauty star Bentley. 'We're at a point where everything is possible with the Duttons. It's so combustible right now that it could blow them all up together. With the tension and danger, it could be either they are all gone, or one of them survives.'

Jamie (Wes Bentley, centre) makes a move against his father

HOPES AND FEARS

As for John's closest ally, his daughter Beth, Reilly hopes her character's rollercoaster ride – which has included losing the ability to bear children in her youth, surviving a brutal assault by masked men, facing jail for a bar-room assault and slugging it out with her father's ex-lover Summer – might end on a more peaceful note.

'She's such a warrior, isn't she?' says the Britannia star of her character, who found love with cowboy Rip (Cole Hauser) and married him. 'Her reason to be is to protect and to fight. I question whether happiness is allowed, but maybe there's a future where she is not yanked out of her happiness.'

Juliette explores life outside the Silo as the dystopian sci-fi returns

Silo

NEW Available: Fri 15 Nov Genre: Sci-fi Season: 2 Episodes: 10 (released weekly)

Engineer-turned-sheriff Juliette (Rebecca Ferguson) left the sanctuary of Silo 18 – a subterranean home to 10,000 souls – for the outside world at the end of season one of the dystopian sci-fi series after digging too deep into the secrets of the underground society.

Following her investigation into the death of her partner George, a collector of forbidden historical artefacts, Juliette was banished to the exterior by the silo's head of security, Bernard (Tim Robbins). But rather than the green and pleasant land she'd hoped for, the reality was the post-apocalyptic wasteland familiar from the camera feed outside the silo, which she had believed to be part of a hoax.

Thanks to superior protective gear, Juliette managed to get further than previous outcasts and found a scorched landscape dotted with other silos, with a ruined city on the horizon.

As she sets off to explore the nearby Silo 17, which is littered with corpses, what clues will all this offer to the history of what came before 'the rebellion'?

'Juliette is riddled with trauma, despair and grief,' says Dune actor Ferguson. 'She's lost her mother, brother and boyfriend. The trajectory of her emotional life is the unravelling of everything that's been pushed down. When she's sent out and arrives at Silo 17, she can't control it anymore. It's basically pure survival.'

We see in flashback the tragedy that unfolded in Silo 17, which appears to have been abandoned a long time ago. However, there's an unexpected surprise in the form of Solo, played by The White Lotus actor Steve Zahn, whom Rebecca finds barricaded behind a heavy metal door.

Solo has access to material about the past and the outside world, but can he help Juliette find answers to her troubled life?

'Solo reads encyclopaedias and he fills himself with facts about the world outside, history, animals and nature,' says Zahn. 'But he doesn't answer as many questions as Juliette would like. He just poses more questions.'

The highs and lows of being in a boy band

Larger than Life: The Reign of the Boybands

NEW Available: Wednesday 13 November Genre: Music documentary

The tragic death of former One Direction star Liam Payne last month has focused attention on the enormous demands and pressures of becoming a worldwide superstar in a chart-topping boy band.

Now, Paramount+'s timely one-off documentary traces the long history of boy bands, featuring contributions from several former boy band members, including 70s legend Donny Osmond, Backstreet Boys' AJ McLean and actor Donnie Wahlberg, who began his career as part of New Kids on the Block.

Formed in Boston in the 1980s, New Kids quickly amassed an army of devoted teenage fans and had million-selling pop hits such as Hangin' Tough. But each band member soon began to struggle with the demands of stardom and growing up in the public eye – and they eventually split in 1994.

'Things just got too big,' recalls Blue Bloods star Wahlberg, 55. 'We were so famous that we were hiding in hotels and trying to just have a moment of peace. The craziness affected each guy differently, but we all felt disconnected.'

The band have often reunited in the years following their first flush of fame and released a new studio album, Still Kids, in May this year.

'It has given us the fun energy of being kids again because we really do feel like we are still those young guys giving it our all,' says Wahlberg. 'I love that I've got to experience it all with them again.'

A ruthless cartel boss becomes her kind-hearted real self

Karla Sofía Gascón as Emilia Pérez

Emilia Pérez

NEW Available: Wednesday 13 November
Genre: Musical comedy drama

Crime thriller meets glitzy musical in this compelling drama about a fearsome Mexican mob boss, Manitas, who realises that he was born into the wrong body – and the wrong life.

In a life-changing decision, the macho drug kingpin, played by Karla Sofía Gascón, decides to have gender-affirming surgery and begin a new authentic life as a woman called Emilia Pérez, while working to help victims of crime.

'With Emilia Pérez, it's as if Beauty and the Beast were locked in the same body,' says Gascón, who is transgender herself. 'When the film opens, she is Manitas, a woman who's confined in a body she doesn't belong in, but who finds herself at a point where she has the opportunity to leave her life behind – a life she wants no part of anymore.'

Emilia hires lawyer Rita (Lioness' Zoe Saldaña) to organise the surgery, help her fake her own death and relocate her unknowing wife, Jessi (Only Murders in the Building's Selena Gomez), and two children to a safe house.

'Emilia's relationship with Rita is very complex, but they go on this beautiful journey together,' explains Gascón. 'They share the same desire to live a life that's more authentic to who they are, to feel happiness and fulfilment by their life's purpose. Their relationship evolves into a sisterhood that's rooted in love and true concern for each other.'

The film tells of Emilia's transformation through song and dance, which Gascón found daunting at first.

'When I got offered the role, I was told I had to learn 48 songs by the next day, and I thought, "OK, great. I'm never going to do this movie because I'm not a singer, and I do not read music." But this role was a true jewel for any actor. To have so many women in a single movie who are so different from one another but share the same desire to do something better with their lives and to make the world a better place? That's just wonderful.'

Queen Camilla brings the subject of domestic abuse to the fore

Royal refuge

The Queen helps the fight against domestic abuse in a one-off special

NEW FACTUAL

Her Majesty the Queen: Behind Closed Doors

Monday, 9pm, ITV1

Queen Camilla is on a mission to bring the harrowing issue of domestic abuse firmly into the spotlight in a feature-length ITV1 documentary.

In Her Majesty the Queen: Behind Closed Doors, cameras follow the Queen over 12 months, as she examines the trauma faced by those affected and highlights the work being done to help them.

'I don't think anyone will have seen the Queen speak this candidly. She understands the power she has and wants to be a force for good,' says the documentary's executive producer Naveed Chowdhary-Flatt.

'She has worked in this field for a decade and the Palace approached us, because she wants to use her position to give a voice to survivors, as often people are silenced. Domestic abuse happens behind closed doors and it's insidious. The Queen wants to bring this out in the open and get everyone together to eradicate it.'

In the documentary, the royal teams up with charities such as SafeLives, of which she is a patron, and hosts events at Buckingham Palace, and also speaks movingly with survivors and visits a refuge.

OPEN CONVERSATIONS

'She meets a cohort of SafeLives' young "changemakers" and they discuss how younger people can have healthy relationships. It's all about having conversations early,' reveals Chowdhary-Flatt.

'We show a broad church of survivors' stories. The Queen has great empathy. One of the survivors couldn't believe the Queen wanted to talk to her, but Her Majesty said, "You're as important as everybody else." There are no airs, no graces. She makes people feel like rock stars.'

Former Prime Minister Theresa May, who made coercive and controlling behaviour an offence when she was Home Secretary, is among those speaking about the cause in the film, while the Queen also talks to those who have lost loved ones to domestic abuse, including campaigner Diana Parkes, whose daughter Joanna Simpson was killed by her estranged husband Robert Brown in 2010.

'Queen Camilla met Diana at a SafeLives event a few years ago and that sent her down the path of wanting to do something. Here they have another meeting to talk about how far they've come and how much they've got to do,' says Chowdhary-Flatt, who wants the documentary to have a lasting impact.

'I hope it starts a national conversation and opens eyes. Because of the information we're giving out, viewers can recognise the stages [of domestic abuse], and help friends, sisters, daughters, granddaughters. It's a tough subject but help's there. I hope we save lives.'

How a wild otter brought happiness to a Shetlands couple

NEW FACTUAL

Billy & Molly: An Otter Love Story

Friday, 8pm, National Geographic

After returning home to Shetland, Billy Mail found himself feeling lost in life, until a starving, orphaned otter turned up on his jetty in March 2021, who he named Molly.

Now, the moving story of Billy and Molly's unlikely friendship is told in National Geographic's heartwarming film Billy & Molly: An Otter Love Story.

'I've always loved animals but I knew nothing about otters until that day in March 2021,' reveals Mail, 57. 'When I saw this young otter on the jetty I could see her bones, she was really thin. Normally an otter would be scared of people and scarper, but she was obviously so desperate and weak she didn't care.'

At first, Mail began to feed Molly fish. Soon she was visiting daily and the two began to spend more time together. The film captures Mail making the animal freshwater baths, a bed under an upturned boat and even constructing her a little house that resembles a crofter's cottage.

As he and his wife, Susan, slowly bring Molly back to health, it becomes clear that she's also helping them to find joy again. Having never had children of his own, Mail found that the creature brought extra meaning to his life.

'Being trusted by a wild animal is a privilege,' says Mail. 'I spoke to the local otter rescue centre and they said it was OK to feed her, just not to domesticate her, so we haven't.

'She's not tame and we don't touch her, but there's a trust there and that's lovely. Seeing her go from this desperate, emaciated animal to being happy and healthy has changed my life.'

Molly is now back to health

The beautifully-shot documentary captures the heartbreaking moment when Mail decides to stop feeding Molly and let her go off to survive on her own. But it also reveals a surprise when she reappears with a cub.

'She still visits from time to time and it always lifts our hearts when she does,' says Mail. 'I cried when I watched the film back. But they were happy tears, healing tears, not sad ones.'

This magnificent sequel continues the epic saga of the fight for the desert planet

SCI-FI SAGA

Friday, 11.05am & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★★

Denis Villeneuve wrangles coherence from Dune author Frank Herbert's unruly elements to deliver a sequel that ranks alongside The Dark Knight, The Empire Strikes Back and the director's own Blade Runner 2049.

The action picks up shortly after 2021's Part One. Their people massacred by the Harkonnens, Paul Atreides (Timothée Chalamet) and mum Jessica (Rebecca Ferguson) join the Fremen, who live as one with the barren planet Arrakis. As Paul bonds with Fremen scrapper Chani (Zendaya), he has nightmares of grim destiny. Will he convert his Fremen doubters and become the messianic Muad'Dib, as prophesied?

With the stage set for multi-tiered conflict, Villeneuve delivers with forceful style. Hypnotic and horrifying images mount, full of wonder, scale and impact. Among the cast, the lead trio shine brightest. Zendaya invests feeling in a character smartly built up from Herbert's vision. Chalamet blossoms in tandem with Paul, showing previously untapped reserves of command. And Austin Butler oozes toxic trouble as Harkonnen heir Feyd-Rautha. The sharply judged climax leaves room for more and with Dune Messiah to be adapted next, there's no doubt Villeneuve is the man to see a way through that delirious desert storm. 2024, 12, 166MIN

The Last Duel

Friday, 9pm, Film4 ★★★★

Ridley Scott ventures to medieval France in his latest historical epic, an intelligent tale of truth, justice, and honour. Jean de Carrouges (Matt Damon) marries Lady Marguerite (Jodie Comer), who accuses Jacques LeGris (Adam Driver) of rape. King Charles VI (Alex Lawther) declares there will be a duel to the death, with dire consequences for Marguerite if her husband loses. The conceit here is that events are told first from the viewpoint of de Carrouges, then LeGris, and finally Marguerite. Things shift accordingly, notably the account of the rape but also subtleties in exchanges between characters. It feels utterly relevant in the #MeToo era, exploring issues of assault, consent and victimhood. Scope and scale meet unreliable narrators for a thought-provoking tale of systematic abuse. 2021, 18, 153MIN

Immaculate

Meek and mild American Sydney Sweeney travels to the Italian countryside in order to become a nun in this wild and twisted horror flick. Something's amiss at the convent, though, especially when virginal Sweeney suddenly becomes pregnant. God's work? Or something more sinister? Although taking its time to boil over and containing a few too many cheap jump scares, this handsomely filmed chiller simmers along nicely, perpetually hinting at some hidden malevolence. Sweeney is excellent, transforming from a timid wallflower to a woman forced to find faith within herself, rather than her religious beliefs. She's also ably supported by Álvaro Morte as a roguishly charming young priest and Benedetta Porcaroli as Sweeney's forthright and worldly wise friend within the confines of the nunnery. As for the seriously gnarly finale, it's one hell of a climax. 2024, 18, 89MIN

Journey to Bethlehem

Sunday, 8.10am & 6.15pm, Sky Premiere ★★★

If you were to blend High School Musical with the Nativity story, you would likely end up with Journey to Bethlehem. A jaunty, occasionally amusing faith-based production that gives Fiona Paloma's Mary and Milo Manheim's Joseph a curious romcom relationship, it's all set to decent, inoffensive songs and stylish choreography. The crowning jewel, however, is a scenery-devouring Antonio Banderas as nasty King Herod, an actor clearly enjoying himself and helped by having by far the best tunes. In all, this does what it sets out to do – it's Christianity with a light touch. 2023, PG, 99MIN

In their barn lives an elusive elf (Kiran Shah), who's super helpful, as long as specific instructions are abided by. Which of course Starr ignores... The parched, drought-hit land around an Outback town is fertile territory for secrets and lies in this thriller based on Jane Harper's hit novel. Eric Bana is superb as a haunted cop forced to go back to his hometown after his childhood pal has, apparently, shot his wife, kid and then turned the gun on himself. But Bana's presence opens up bitter wounds of a murder 20 years before, which he may know more about than he's letting on… Wonderfully acted, well paced and shot with a masterful eye, this is gripping. 2020, 15, 117MIN

Sleazy 1970s Hollywood movie producer Robert De Niro, in debt to a mob boss (Morgan Freeman), hits on the idea of a scam in which he plots to kill off the washed-up star (Tommy Lee Jones) of his new Western in order to claim the insurance money. But, naturally, things don't quite go to plan... This comedy fails to make the most of its fantastic cast, but there's still much to enjoy and Jones is great fun. 2020, 12, 104MIN

This thundering screen version of Frank Miller's cult comic book is brought to eye-popping life utilising the same blend of live action and CGI animation as the earlier adaptation of Miller's Sin City. It is essentially a restaging of the Battle of Thermopylae in 480BC, as King Leonidas (Gerard Butler) and 300 Spartan warriors stand their ground against the entire might of the Persian army of Xerxes (Rodrigo Santoro). 2006, 15, 117MIN

A World War Two adventure that veers appealingly between farce and drama, as British PoW Oliver Reed attempts to cross the Alps on the back of an elephant he's liberated from Munich Zoo. Meanwhile, American Michael J Pollard provides comic support. Crisply paced and making the right tugs on our emotions at the appropriate times, this is one of director Michael Winner's best films. 1968, U, 102MIN

Mother Salome (Claire Foy) intends to fight, butting heads with Mariche (Jessie Buckley) who's equally certain flight is right. Director Sarah Polley's film is austere, but also a daring and gripping adaptation of Miriam Toews' novel. # ATP Finals

It's the dawn of a new era at the season-finale tournament

LIVE TENNIS

ATP Finals

From Sunday, Sky Sports Tennis, Sky Sports Main Event & Sky Sports+

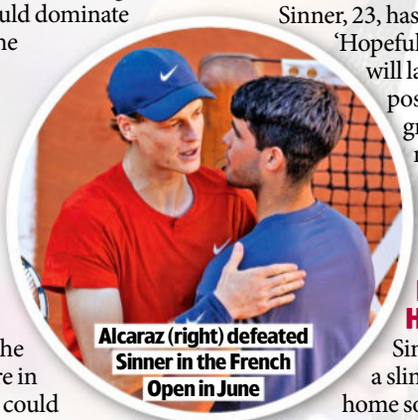
As the end-of-season ATP Finals begin in Turin on Sunday, men's tennis looks set to witness the latest chapter in an exciting new rivalry that could dominate the sport for the next decade.

With defending champion Novak Djokovic likely to miss the event as speculation continues to swirl around the Serbian's future in the game, this could be the first Finals for 21 years not to feature any of the dominant 'Big Four' of Djokovic, the retired Roger Federer and Sir Andy Murray and the soon-to-retire Rafael Nadal.



Alcaraz (right) defeated Sinner in the French Open in June

NEW STARS

Instead, in the eight-man singles event, all eyes will be on the burgeoning rivalry between two talented 20-somethings – Italy's world No.1 Jannik Sinner and Spain's world No.2 Carlos Alcaraz.

This year, the two players have dominated the ATP Tour, dividing the four Grand Slams between them, with Sinner claiming the Australian Open and US Open, and Alcaraz winning the French Open and Wimbledon.

'I wake up in the morning trying to understand how to beat Carlos,' Sinner, 23, has admitted. 'Hopefully, this rivalry will last as long as possible. It's always great when we meet. We try to push ourselves and each other to the limits.'

HOME-WIN HOPES

Sinner starts as a slim favourite on home soil and will be aiming for his first win in the tournament, having lost the 2023 final to Djokovic, while Alcaraz is also making his second appearance in Turin after reaching the semi-finals 12 months ago.

'Jannik is a great player with great shots,' says Alcaraz, 21, who got the better of his opponent in their last Slam meeting, the French Open semi-final in June. 'I would say we are going to have a great rivalry over the years. We are going to play a lot of great matches.'

BEST OF BRITISH

Emma Raducanu and Katie Boulter will be flying the flag when Great Britain faces Germany in Malaga on Friday (4pm, BBC iPlayer & BBC Red Button) in the first round of this year's Billie Jean King Cup finals.

This year's 12-nation event is a straight knockout tournament, with the winners of the tie facing holders Canada in the quarter-finals on 17 November before the final on 20 November. Each tie is the best-of-three rubbers – two singles matches followed by a doubles.

'Germany are an experienced team,' says GB coach Anne Keothavong. 'But we are excited to be involved in the finals and we'll give it our all as always.'

Autumn Nations Series

Saturday & Sunday, TNT Sports 1 & Discovery+

World champions South Africa play their first Test of the series at Murrayfield on Sunday (k-o 4.10pm), with a squad featuring lock Eben Etzebeth who recently set the record as his country's most-capped player. The Springboks won the recent Rugby Championship, with Aphelele Fassi in outstanding form, and new Scotland captain Sione Tuipulotu will be aiming to prevent a ninth straight loss in the fixture. The weekend's games start on Saturday, with England hosting Australia (k-o 3.15pm) after winning their tour Down Under in 2022, while Wales begin on Sunday against Fiji (k-o 1.40pm). There is a shock recall for Rhodri Williams, and Gareth Anscombe is also back in the squad as Wales coach Warren Gatland tries to halt a nine-Test losing streak.

From Thursday, Sky Sports Golf & Sky Sports Main Event

The Race to Dubai reaches a climax as the European No.1 is crowned following the season-ending tournament at the Jumeirah Golf Estates. Rory McIlroy is on course to claim the Harry Vardon Trophy for the third year running (and the sixth time in total). It's been a roller-coaster year for McIlroy whose wins included the Wells Fargo Championship in May, but who agonisingly missed out on an elusive fifth major at the US Open.

Nations League

Thursday & Friday, kick-offs 7.45pm, ITV1 & Viaplay YouTube channel

New Three Lions boss Thomas Tuchel won't take charge until next year, but he's sure to take a keen interest in England's Nations League clash in Greece on Thursday (ITV1). Interim boss Lee Carsley saw his experimental side outplayed by their opponents in the 2-1 defeat at Wembley last month, and England will probably need a win if they want to top Group B2. On Friday, winless Scotland entertain Croatia in Group A1 and table-topping Northern Ireland host Belarus in Group C3 (Viaplay YouTube channel).

Liam Livingstone or Phil Salt are likely to be on standby to skipper an England side that includes newbies John Turner, Dan Mousley and Jafer Chohan.

Coming soon

Colin Firth as Dr Jim Swire

Catherine McCormack as Jane Swire

Colin Firth stars in a factual drama about the aftermath of the bombing

FIRST LOOK

Lockerbie: A Search for Truth

Sky Atlantic's powerful upcoming drama Lockerbie: A Search for Truth explores a father's grief following the loss of his child in the terrorist attack.

The five-part series, airing on 2 January, is inspired by the book The Lockerbie Bombing: A Father's Search for Justice by Dr Jim Swire and Peter Biddulph and sees Colin Firth play Swire, whose daughter Flora was of the 259 passengers and crew who were killed when Pan Am Flight 103 exploded over Lockerbie in December 1988, while 11 residents of the town also died.

As international tensions brew, GP Swire undertakes a single-minded mission, along with wife Jane (Catherine McCormack), to discover what happened. Along the way, he meets Colonel Muammar Gaddafi (Nabil Al Raee) and travels to the Netherlands for the trial of Libyan national Abdelbaset al-Megrahi (Ardalan Esmaili), who was convicted of the bombing, but Swire starts to question the conclusions that are being presented to the world…

Sam Troughton, Mark Bonnar and Guy Henry also appear.

'As the spokesperson for the UK victims' families, we have followed Jim Swire's story for three decades,' say executive producers Gareth Neame and Nigel Marchant. 'Colin Firth gives a captivating performance. In part a moving character story of love and loss, this drama is as much an investigative political thriller that shows how an ordinary man with unstoppable determination can take on governments and world leaders in pursuit of truth.'
